This kindergarten skill goal sheet that is a fun and very visual way for the kids to see what skills they have mastered. When a skill has been mastered, the child can put a sticker in the box. If you use the black and white version another idea is to have the students color the square or picture once they meet a goal. Excellent motivation to meet kindergarten goals

In my classroom, I have homework folders that have a clear sleeve on the back to keep the sheet. This form of communication allows students to see all the have learned as well as informing parents to see what their child has mastered and where they may need extra support and help.
